Per Section 79.1(f), as Executive Producer of "Grown Folks Dancing," I am requesting an exemption from closed captioning because it imposes an undue burden. Grown Folks Dancing is a locally produced thirty (30) minute television program broadcasted at 12:30 am Sunday on WTVZ, Norfolk, Va. The show is primarily of local interest since it features local residents and its' economic support system is inherently fragile.

Inquires have been made to have the show "closed captioned"; however, most have proven to be cost prohibitive. Prices range from $150 to $250 per show. The show is aired weekly meaning a cost of $600 to $1000 per month. Since this is an extremely low budget operation (meaning one person handle's everything from capturing the footage to hosting the show to post production) $600 to $1000 per month is not within budgetary constraints.

Pursuit of sponsorship of closed captioning is an option but has not been fruitful to this point. With the current economy, chances of procuring sponsorship seem bleak. The distributor, WTVZ, does not offer closed captioning services to program owners. WTVZ has recommended a third party to handle closed captions; however, the cost is $250 per show which again, is cost prohibitive.

Within the program, text is frequently added to provide a modicum of on screen information. This in no way should be construed as transcription but does offer a type of alternative.

Based on the aforementioned, the request for exemption of closed captioning is requested.
